

NWW Health and Safety Considerations for 2021

We are still in the covid-19 era and so we are taking precautions for everyone's safety. We follow the Washington state guidelines for covid-19 related safety concerns. If these guidelines change prior to the event, we will follow the new guidelines. If it becomes too high of a health and safety risk to hold the event in person, the event will be cancelled, your tuition will be refunded. If cancellation is required, we may offer an event online. We will keep you updated.

Your agreement to the following guidelines is required for registration:

- Everyone on site must be fully vaccinated.
- Everyone must provide proof of full vaccination prior to attending the event. Once you are registered we will provide information on how to send us your proof of vaccination.
- Everyone must bring proof of vaccination to the event (vaccination card or photo of card).
- If you display symptoms typical of covid-19 or its variants before the event, you must not attend the event.
- If you display symptoms typical of covid-19 or its variants during the event, you will need to leave the site.
- In the event anyone on site displays symptoms, everyone on site will be notified.

We will do our best to make this a safe event for everyone. Please remember that any gathering does pose risks.

Your agreement to the following is required for registration:

By attending this event, you acknowledge the reasonable health risk you are taking. Should you become ill as a consequence of attending this event, you agree to hold harmless Northwest Writers' Weekend, Puget Sound Guitar Workshop and Pilgrim Firs, and all the good folks who work for these organizations.
